Shoalhaven tops most popular regional N.S.W. tourist destinations

We Are Tops

Many tourists make the trip to visit our local historic Jindyandy Mill craft village, and then continue on to Greenwell Point for oysters or fish and chips, as a day outing from all over the region.

The Mill is a relic of the first period of agricultural settlement in the area, and in conjunction with the adjacent Butter Factory building, forms a significant group of heritage structures, illustrating technological and social advances in the development of the south coast area.

The current owner of Jindyandy Mill, Sally Marshman has been collecting historic material and old framing artefacts, machines in an attempt to create a museum that tells the story of the early agricultural practices of the original settlers who transformed the landscape in which we now live.

The barn at upper Numbaa or as it is known today, "The Jindyandy Mill" is one of the original buildings constructed by Alexander Berry and Edward Wollstonecraft on their Shoalhaven Estate. It was the first masonry structure to be erected south of the Shoalhaven river. In 1822, they were granted 10,000 acres at Coolangatta and 2,000 acres at Numbaa. The flats at Numbaa were prepared for cultivation, and became the first farm in the Shoalhaven district.

Timber getting commenced, together with the planting of potatoes, corn, tobacco, wheat, barley and vegetables. Cattle and pigs were also farmed.

Berry first planted wheat in August 1824: 120 acres at Numbaa Estate. The mill at Jindyandy, built in 1830 by Berry's assigned convict labour, was one of several built in the district to store and crush wheat to make flour.

The flour mill at Jindyandy, was built of brick laid in the English bond style, by convicts. The clay to make the bricks came from pits down Jindyandy Lane. Some of the locks and hinges still bear the 'B W' mark related to the partnership of Berry and Wollstonecraft, begun in 1819 in Sydney. The Mill had its threshing machine, imported from Scotland, on the first floor. It was operated from a shaft extending from gears at the top of a vertical spindle that was turned by either four or eight bullocks, yoked to a large timber cross piece. The bullock operated outside the barn walking in a circle at ground level, on the western side where Frog Pottery shop now stands. As they walked round, they revolved a wheel which was connected with the threshing machine inside the barn by overhead beams and shafts.

In 1892, the Numbaa Estate was subdivided into 127 lots and sold off as farms, many of which remain today in the hands of the locals.

The Jindyandy mill was classified by the national trust in 1985, as an important original reminder of our early agricultural beginnings in the area..

Today, tourists and locals alike, sick of the modern multinational chain stores, departments stores, fast food outlets, shopping malls, and all the trappings of the fast modern world, enjoy a visit to Jindyandy, with its old world charm and friendly owner occupied stores.

There is still the link to the old world family owned country store, and Australian Small Business, all set in the peaceful lovely ground. No parking problems here only charming unique shops with a variety of interesting contents, with that traditional country service.

Jindyandy Mill now houses The Scrapbooking Superstore, which attracts visitors from all over Australia.

Thoughts of Mother

If you could change one thing about your mother, what would it be?
2nd class reply.

She has this weird thing about me keeping my room clean. I'd get rid of that.

I'd make my mum smarter. Then she would know it was my sister who did it not me.

I would like for her to get rid of those invisible eyes in the back of her head.

70's Group

With Jackie Parry

Funnily enough, it was a full moon when I spotted them; purple hair with flashing lights, blue feathers and psychedelic pink and green stripes. No, I had not been taking illegal substances; admittedly, I had a couple of wines in the Pub, but not enough to create hallucinations.

I wondered if I should approach them to find out who they were and why they were here. Greenwell Point citizens deserve the right to know what's going on in their town. The purple flashing hair winked at me as I tentatively tried to make contact. With relief, I could sense no hostile feelings at my uninvited intrusion.

The local folks I met that night are hip, funky and out for fun. Once a quarter, within the constraints of a chosen theme, they dress appropriately, meet in the Pub and head to a prearranged location for a nosh up. This time the outfit theme was loud, I'd add to that theme (wild colour), and take it from me, they were all successful!

So how do you become a member of this 'good time' group, I asked, my confidence bolstered by the wine and friendly welcome at the Technicolor

Table. Just get to St Vinnies, buy appropriate clothes for the next theme and wait for contact, I am told.

Covertly hidden beneath the laid back demeanour of Greenwell Point, there is a young, gamesome group ready to add a snazzy splash of florid fun to peaceful nights. The group has been getting together for years, stemming back to school days. Twice yearly, a dozen or so of the families also meet for camping excursions.

So, in a few months if you spot a group of people wearing tight clothing that looks like it has exploded each end, that is this crowd on their 70's night. Stand back and admire, or you may get sucked into their roller coaster ride of revelry.

Shoalhaven B.U.G. and Angler's Rest

Until 10 years ago, the major focus of organised cycling in the Shoalhaven was still very much on road riding and racing. By the 1900's, however, the mountain bike (MTB) had become well established, and many riders, especially older ones, soon became attracted to the much greater flexibility which the MTB offers over the single purpose road machine. The result was that a breakaway group was formed for all aspects of recreational cycling, especially off-road and bush riding. That group became known as the Shoalhaven Bicycle User's Group (SBUG).

At the same time, many other "BUGS" were created throughout NSW, and that special form of cycling, now has its own permanent and successful place in the cycling calendar throughout the state—there is one in Kiama for instance - and they ride and liaise with each other frequently.

For the next 7 or 8 years, little changed to get the new venture up and running. In order to minimise traffic hazards, the ride route was standardised, and it was decided to make an early start at 7.00 am every Saturday morning from the Nowra Visitor's Centre car park, via Terara, Jindyandy Lane, Pyree, and the Greenwell Point Road to the Point - and return - a distance of approx 40 kms. This ride has proven to be extremely successful. Over the two years since it was introduced, the number of riders participating has steadily increased, and the average these days is around 30. However, without doubt, the most significant feature responsible for its success has been the very warm reception we receive at the Angler's rest Park at the Point every Saturday morning. Well before the 'peloton' arrives, Linda, Larry, Janene and other staff have suitable refreshment ready for us, and by the time the riders have partaken and had a short rest, they are ready for the 'sprint' back to Nowra. We are all indebted to them for adding to the success of our cycling venture, and look forward to many more years of mutual co-operation.

Although this article has focused on only one aspect of the SBUG's activities, there are many more. For further information, please contact Cathy on 4423 5973 or Tom on 4421 6719 in the Shoalhaven cycling calendar. Bush and off-road rides dominated the SBUG calendar. Then two years ago, when a few older members were having a chat about earlier times, the suggestion was made that maybe once a week road ride could be re-instituted to the weekly rides calendar. This is precisely what happened, and immediately the idea caught on, with sufficient numbers coming forward Greenwell Point United Hospital Auxillary.

The April meeting of the Greenwell Point U.H.A. was well attended by members and Anne Marie was our representative from the hospital.

Final plans were made for the stall to be held on Easter Saturday, where we participated in the combined fete run by the Greenwell Point P.C. This turned out to be profitable for our club. We had a vast assortment of goodies to sell to the eager public, donated by our members and generous supporters. The day was wet at times, but this didn't dampen the spirits of the visitors to the Community Hall.

On the agenda is a stall to be held in the main foyer of the Shoalhaven Hospital on Friday 11th May, just prior to Mother's Day, when we hope to have gifts for mum, as well as the usual cooking , craft and baby knitting for sale. On Monday the 14th May we will be holding a dinner at the Greenwell Point Chinese Restaurant, also for Mother's Day. If you would like to come along to this, you can do so by ringing June on 44471255 or Dianna on 44471602 to make a booking, before Thursday 10th May. Tickets are $12-50 p.p. and we will be having the usual raffle and lucky door prize .

Greenwell Point health service auxillary.

As well as contributing financially to the operation and maintenance of the voluntary medical bus, available to all patients unable to drive, we arrange guest speakers on various health issues. Do you have a suggestion? Previous speakers have covered incontinence, dementia, health and exercise, palliative care and wig library, and we are negotiating for one on organ and tissue donations. Our aim is to have a good quality of life, so we can all enjoy our delightful surroundings. Phone 44471641.

Greenwell Point fishing Club 10th Open Easter Fishing Carnival.

The Greenwell Point Fishing Club's 10th Open Easter Fishing Carnival was another great success, with all entrants receiving great prizes for just registering, and even better prizes for all the winners. The Fishing Carnival attracted 190 entrants, which was very good, considering the bad weather that occurred over the Easter Weekend.

Proceeds from the Fishing Carnival go to the Shoalhaven Marine Rescue Association. On Friday 27th April, 2007, at the Greenwell Point bowling and Sports Club, the fishing club handed over a $5000.00 cheque to Mr Bill Carter, President of the S.M.R.A, As a result of the generosity of all the businesses of Greenwell Point and Solomon Motors South Nowra, who sponsored the Carnival as well as our major sponsors; The Greenwell Point Bowling and Sports Club, Silstar / Okuma and Dawson Moving and Storage. All of whom made the $5000.00 donation the best ever .
